Series Inventory

Series 5: Performance

Dates: 1957-2003 (Bulk 1961-1989)

Extent: 2.5 Cubic Feet in 5 manuscript boxes

Historical Note: Performance was an integral part of Robert Rauschenberg's artistic output. In addition to choreographing and performing in his own works, Rauschenberg collaborated with choreographers throughout his career. He designed sets, costumes and lighting for Trisha Brown, Merce Cunningham, and Paul Taylor, among others. Rauschenberg was involved with the Judson Dance Theater in the early 1960s, an experimental collective of dancers and visual artists. The first performance choreographed by Rauschenberg was "Pelican" (1963) performed at the Pop Art Festival in Washington, D.C. in May 1963. His most productive period as choreographer occurred between 1963 and 1967; Rauschenberg's choreographed performances from this time period include "Linoleum" (1966), "Map Room II" (1965), and "Spring Training" (1965). From 1954 to 1964 Rauschenberg worked as the lighting, set and costume designer for the Merce Cunningham Dance Company, accompanying the group on a world tour in 1964. Having first met in the 1960s, Rauschenberg's collaboration with Trisha Brown spanned multiple decades and included set and costume design for "Glacial Decoy" (1979) and "Set and Reset" (1983).

Scope and Content: The Performance series contains materials related to performances that Robert Rauschenberg created, collaborated on, or participated in. The series also contains a selection of documentation of performances by Rauschenberg's collaborators and friends. The bulk of the documentation consists of handwritten or typed notes, sketches, and scores by Rauschenberg and collaborators, and printed materials such as flyers, posters and programs publicizing and documenting the events. Highlights of the series include Rauschenberg's costume design sketches for Merce Cunningham; Rauschenberg's notes and supply lists for his performances including "Map Room II" (1965), "Open Score" (1966), "Pelican" (1963), and "Spring Training" (1965); and Rauschenberg's notebooks documenting his participation in multiple works by various artists. Collaborators represented in this series include Trisha Brown, Merce Cunningham, Deborah Hay, Yvonne Rainer, and Paul Taylor. The majority of the records in this series date from the 1960s through the 1980s.

This series does not contain documentary photographs or audiovisual materials. Photographs documenting performance events can be found in the Photograph collection (RRFA 09). Audiovisual materials documenting performance events can be found in the Audiovisual collection (RRFA 02). Additional materials related to "Open Score" (1966) can be found in the Experiments in Art and Technology (E.A.T) sub-series of the Projects and Exhibitions series.

Arrangement: This series is arranged alphabetically by artist, choreographer, performance group, or event name. Unidentified performances or choreographers and files about the work of various choreographers are found at the end of the series.

Processing Information: Rauschenberg's studio staff compiled the majority of the materials in the Performance series. When appropriate, related materials were integrated into the series during processing.
